Tension gripped the entire fruit belt. You can hardly picture this acone, whereby respectable businessmen practically forgot about their business, women are so enthused over the prospects that they constantly forgot about the roast in the oven. School kids might as well be out of school, their minds are far away. 14th, 1947. This is the fourth game of the series, the Peach Kings are a game up and can cinch the Championship with a win. The "packed to the rafters" crowd are standing and have been standing for hours. The first man in the line-up for tickets was parked in front of the rink at half-past four. The scene is set, and the tension electrifies the brisk April air.

Two of the best officials in the business, Red Dunn and Lea Kirkpatrick are ready, and the puck is dropped. The teams fence with each other for a minute and twenty-five seconds, before a shot is fired on goal. The first goal may mean a Championship. At 3.24, Johnny Hale came zig-zagging out of his own end, finally crossed the enemy blueline. Hale took the puck to the side with two checks right on his tail. Suddenly he drops the puck back to Hutchizon who was standing about fifteen feet out and in the clear. It was over in a flash. A quick pass, a quick shot and the Kings were a goal up. The fans we think had a right to let off steam, pent-up feelings should not be confined too long. They weren't.

The period was probably the fastest period of the year, and you could ascertain that it couldn't keep going for three periods. MacMillan was sensational in this first frame, especially when the Kid Line was completely disorganized at one stage.

The Millionairea kept bringing the puck right back to the King sone, and finally they were rewarded as Lawrie poked the rubber past MacMillan on a ganging attack. The period ended in a tie.

The fans didn't have long to wait for action in the second period. Forty seconds after the puck was dropped. Pud Roid sircled his net in true Reid fachion. Zuke was with Pud, and took this pass in the centre none, passed it back to Pud after crossing the blue-line, and Reid backhanded the puck past Harper to put the Kings out in front for the second time. This was the prettiest goal of the night, and reminiscent of Reid's play last year.

MacMillan looked bad a few minutes later, as he let the puck drop through into the net after juggling George Scott's shot. It was a cheap goal, but a great break for the Millionaires.

Harper and Lawrie were penalized in this peried, but the Kings falled to click while they had the advantage of manpower. Jack Watson the best man on the ice for the Millionaires, ran into a bone crushing bodycheck handed out by Normie Warner. Watson had to retire from the game, and although he returned in the third period, he was definitely through for the night.

Mush Miller was the hardest working man on the ice in the second period, and just missed on a brilliant rush. killer was outguessed by Harper in the Millionaires nets. This guy Harper was very good all night. The Kings outshot Markham twelve to seven in the second period, which ended with the score standing at two goals apiece.

Slowing considerably in the third, neither team could click for a counter. Checking was very close. Coach Pud Reid, Sr., juggled his lines as McVicar had done in Oshawa, and although the Kings dominated the play, they could not score on the brilliant Harper. It was a fight to the last bell, and overtime

Red Dunn told us that there would be just ten minutes of overtime, and this commenced without more than two minutes delay.

Playing without their star centre ice man, Bob Bangay, the Millionaires were perhaps handicapped to some extent, but were in there to win, and they (Continued on page 10)

SCENERY IS NOT ENOUGH

During the first week in May government travel bureaus throughout Canada are combining in a special educational campaign. The purpose is twofold, first to impress on the public the value of our mounting tourist trade, second the necessity of better catering and accommodation for visitors. Both points are important but especially the second.

Last year, it is estimated, tourists spent well over $200 millions in Canada and this figure could be multiplied several times if accommodation was adequate. Simply boasting about our great resources in scenery, fresh air and game is not enough. Unless we are prepared to provide our visitors with good transportation, good meals and good beds we might as well forget about the rest.

In this business we are competing with experts and some of them, like the northern tier of states, across the line, we may as well admit, have scenery, air, game and even police uniforms, remarkably like our own. That puts almost the whole burden of attracting American visitors here on the type of service we are prepared to offer. There would be a new Dick Tracy, spending three hours a week reientlessly tracking down tax-evaders and individualistic malcontents, and the remainder of his time filling out forms about them. (His twoway wrist radio, presumably, would operate on a wavelength formerly occupied by a private broadcasting station.) The Katzenjam mer Kids would be office-holders in a Yorth Movement, solemnly practising strength through joy.

Many old friends would be missing. Bathless Groggins would be ruthlessly regimented into taking a bath, and it is doubtful whether the old codger could survive the ordeal, Dagwood Burnstead's boss, Mr. Dithers, capitalistic anachronism, would be among the first casualties. The Lone Ranger would be liquidated forthwith; his very name brands him with anti-social tendencies. But the most tragic loss would be the Yokums. Try as it may, the imagination boggles at trying to fit these determined individualists into a planned economy. Mammy, Pappy and L'il Abner would be under six feet of Dogpatch earth; Salomey would hang in a Government packing house, blue-stamped by a Government meat inspector, while Daisy Mac would be weaned away from her romantic fixation on L'il Abner by a steady diet of Government-approved textbooks on eugenic selection.

HOMECOMING

Young Cholmondeley was disappointed when he arrived in London last spring. His people had been scattered by the war, so nobody met him at Charing Cross. His club was still in the process of being rebuilt. The streets were as crowded as ever, but in the crowds there was no one he knew.

Cholmondeley felt lonely. He wanted an old friend to whom he could tell his adventures from the day, six years before, that he had left a famous public school to join the R.A.F. to his recent release from a Japanese prison camp. His adventures weren't unique, of course, but still he felt he'd like to swap yarns with someone from the old school.

That thought led to his taking a train from Paddington and travelling through the familiar countryside to the little town where the old school stood, untouched by air-raids,

As he walked up the long driveway, the last strokes of the chapel bell were sounding. Watching the last of the students scurry through the door was Mr. Chips, as unchanged as the school itself.

He looked up.

"Oh, hello, Cholmondeley," he said. "Are

"Yes, sir," answered Cholmondeley, And they went in together.

A NEW RETAIL TRADE

A slot machine manufacturer across the line believes that the people of his country who already get away with some 94,000,000,-000 cups of coffee a year, would drink a lot more if they could get it by simply pushing a button.

Consequently he put an automatic coffee vendor on the market last week. From piped in water and powdered coffee, the machine makes an electrically heated brew for five cents, and its four buttons serve a cupful with cream or sugar, both, or neither.

This new coffee dispensing slot machine is the newest in an industry that grossed over five hundred million dollars last year. These machines now sell thousands of items like gum, hot dogs with mustard, golf balls, perfume and insurance policies. And in the immediate future there will be machines in apartment and office buildings selling milk, butter and ice cream, and gasoline in automatic gas stations.

But the king of all slot machines is one made in St. Louis, which rejects counterfeit coins and slugs. At present in the factory is a machine in course of construction, that will sell fresh meat and fish at odd prices, like a pound of fish for 38 cents; a soft drink dispenser that will take as large a coin as a quarter and return 20 cents in change.

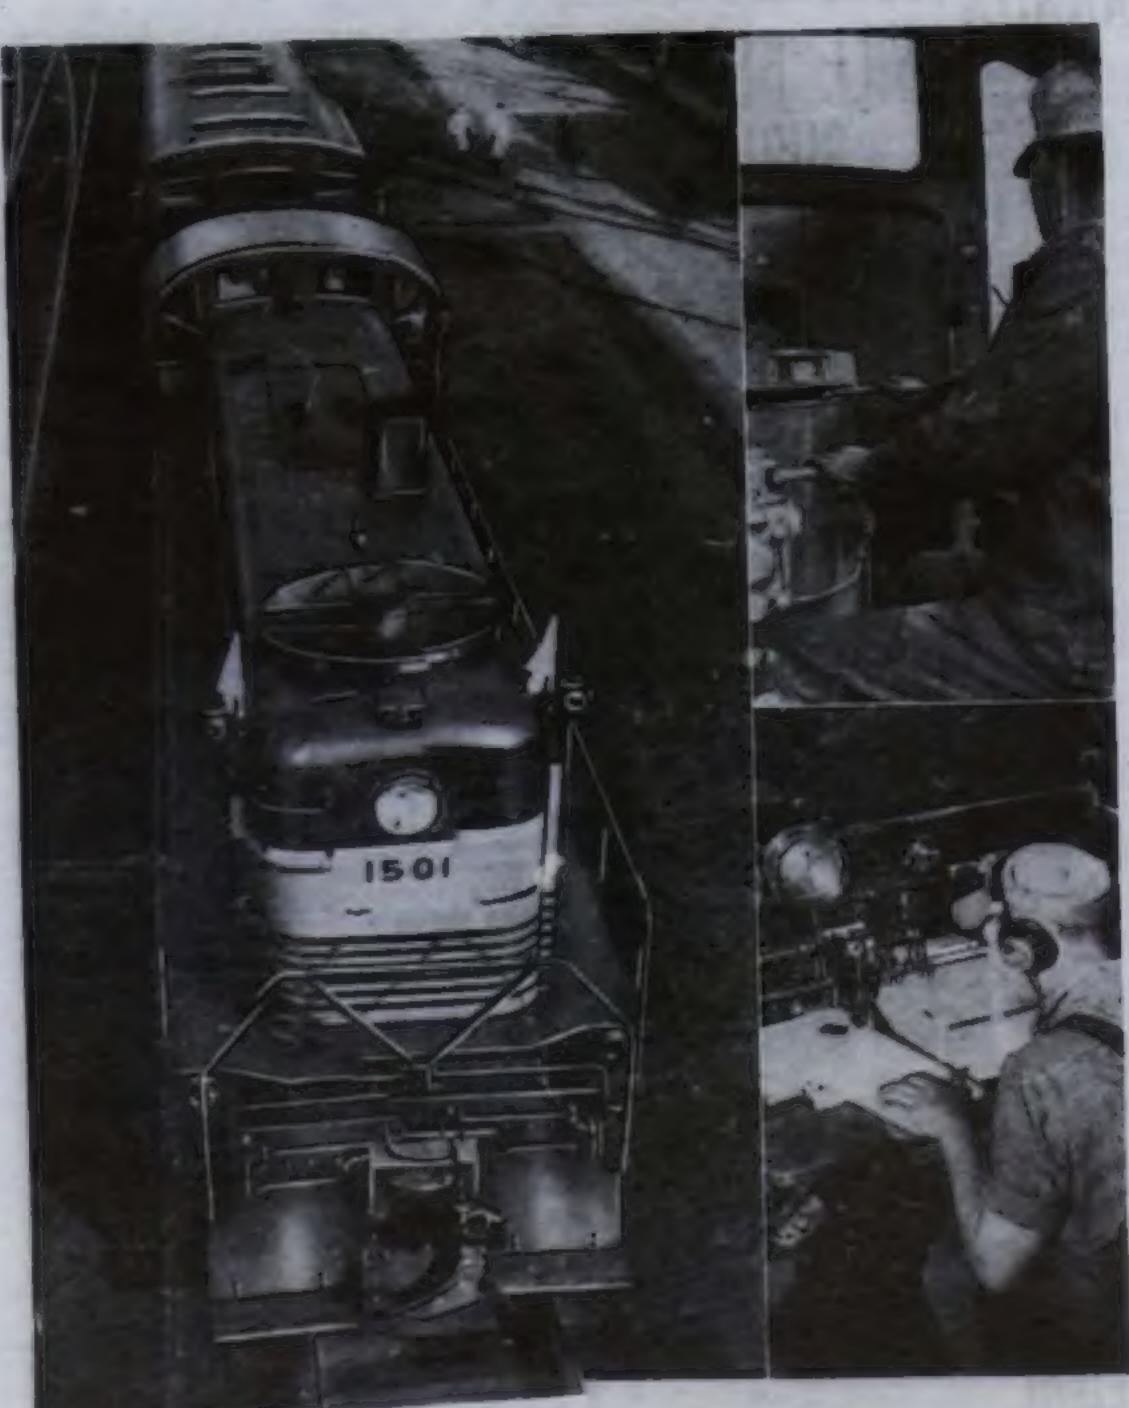

In fact alot machine manufacturers confidently predict that in ten years or less time the automatic vending industry will be one of the nation's top retailers, with a gross business of three billion dollars a year.

The present retail business will have to step up its advertising if it doesn't want to be tramped on.

The worst sorrows in life are not in its losses and misfortunes, but in its fears.

Health is the thing that makes you feel that now is the best time of the year.

WAY BACK WHEN

Frank Fairborn, Jr.

TEMPUS PUGIT-It is a long space of time between Jesse D. Lawrence, father of Mrs. A. F. Hawke, Township of North Grimsby Tax Collector, driving around in his little green gig with a high stepping black mare for motive power, to Victor Wentworth Thomson, present day Tax Collector and his big Bomber Plane.

I have before me a tax notice issue by Jesse D. Lawrence to one Jasper Smith, in 1887, for the sum of $5.91 (this is the property new owned and occupied by Councillor Wm. Mitchell). This tax bill was made up as follows: County Rate 5/10ths of a mill, $2.20; Township Rate 2|1|10ths mills $1.35; High School Rate 79ths mills, 50 cents; Public School Rate, 29110ths mills $1.86-Total $5.91.

Councilior Mitchell informs me that his taxes on this same property in 1945 was $110. including his waterworks assessment and he believes that it is the cheapest money that he can pay out.

The difference between "Bill" and "Jap" lies in the fact that "Jap" carried his water from the well; he and his family used a Chick Sales telephone booth; when he came down town he rode in a springless buggy over an unmade bumpy road; he read The Independent once a week and that is all the news of the world that he had; when he sat down at night to read The Independent it was by coal ell lamp light; he had no contact with his neighbors except by shanks mare, and many other things of a like nature. That is the reason that his taxes on that lovely property was only $5.91.

On the other hand "Bill" and his wonderful little wife "Nellie", have everything that a big city has, and more, too, because they have pure air and sunshine and I would like anybody to find that in any big city, particularly Toronto. They have all modern conveniences in the home including telephone, radio, cheap electricity, when "Bill" wants to come down town he rides on inflated rubber. either in a car or on a bus which passes his home every hour; in fact he has everything but do not forget that it was his initiative and hard work that helped to give the whole township these advantages. Modern methods of trimming, spraying, picking, packing and transporting fruit over the days of "Jap" make this farm worth 20 times what it was worth in those days, so as "Bill" says "why should I not pay 20 times the taxes."

Who remembers "Dick" Lipsit? Well, I do. The last job I remember him on was laying brick on the addition to the present Bell Telephone office. That was not the day before yesterday. His son, Awrey, brings to my desk a time table of the old H. G. & I Electric Railway of 1894-95. A. J. Nelles was the Manager of the "streak of rust" then. That is what everybody called it, "a streak of rust." What a lot of dumbells we were. What would not this district have given to have had the H. G. & B. running through the Belt the past seven years. Rubber and gas could not fill the bill and there will come a time again when they will not be able to fill the bill, but still the H. G. & B. will be dormant. It is gone for-

George Waller, the present Manager of the Hamilton Street Railway System, was the last Manager of the old road. He started out as a con-

The front page of this time table shows a picture of a one truck car. I think possibly this might be the old "Red Bird. No. 13" and the man at the controller might be the late Charles Green, or might have been "Bobby" Braidwood, the most popular man that over ran a car on the H. G. & B. He was killed doing his duty, at the "50" sideroad, east of Winons, in a head-on collison. Waterbury was his conductor in that accident. He has now passed to his reward. He was the father of Mrs. Bruce E Murdoch, of Grimsby

We think that this year will be the big year for tourists, but they apparently were after the tourist trade, too, for read what this time table of 1894 has to my on the back page: "This Electric Railway runs through GRIMSBY and the Great ORIMBBY FRUIT BELT, skirting the base of the mountain the entire distance, which in both Summer and Winter, discloses the most beautiful seenery that can be seen on any Electric or Steam Rallway Line in America. Good stuff, A. J. Nelles must have known his acenery, or was he trying to "buy his way" down Main Street, for at this time the railway had only come to the top of Palmer's Hill, and a terrible fight took place before the railroad was able to traverse Main Street and continue on to Beamsville. That is another story that will be told some time.

. . . . "I FOUND A HORSESHOE"

The United States Steel Corporation has abandened the manufacture of horsesboes. There being ne place for them on a car, there is practically no demand for them any more.

It is but another sign of the changing times Today the village blacksmith stands under a spreading gasoline pump instead of a chestnut tree and he keeps the muscles of his brawny arms fit by jacking up the prices of gas and oil.

The only shoes he knows much about are his own and the kind that have "600x16" stamped on them and sell for $18 each and up, mostly up.

The peaning of the homeshoe from its position in the sentiment in life is to be deplored. Not so many years ago, as the crow flies, it was the symbol of good luck and every home had at least one hung up some place about the premises.

A house might be short a door, a window, a blind, a kitchen stove and any considerable amount of furniture, but it was seldom abort a horse abor. This was in the era of the lightning rod, the four leaf clover, the medicine man, the magic lantern, the bitching posts, the spans of bays, corsets, the iron dogs and the young lady who could be considered perfectly normal and companionable without the cigarette and the cocktail habit.

To be walking along the road and find a horseshoe used to be an incident to stir the emotions. It meant good luck. Even if miles from home in your evening clothes and white gloves you'd pick it up. tote it home and fight any man who tried to take it away from you.

Some people used to gild them. In many a fam. Saturdays Only - 2 to 5 p.m. lly there were so many homeshoes hung around the house that when moving time came the Old Man couldn't get anybody to do the moving job except a dealer in old iron.

Then some fellow who had no regard for human life or human sentiment came along and invented the automobile. This changed everything. There is no luck in enything that falls off an automobile. All a man can find to-day when he walks along the road is perhaps a discarded tire, a piece of skid chain or a quart or two of bolts and nuts. And if he stoops over to pick 'em up he winds up in a hospital with surgeons bending over him exploring for fender parts.

To avoid being driven, drive yourself.

months leave of absence.

Only one tender was received by council for the purchase of the building lot on Main street adjoinmerce, that of $2,250 from Pettit and Whyte, who proposed erecting a modern store and office building on the property. Councillor Johnson moved a motion that the offer be accepted. Councillor Bonham in explanation stated that he believed that it would be to the best advantage of the town to sell the present Municipal Building and ad-joining building lots for residential purposes and thus secure a very much larger taxation revenue than would accrue from a new building on the Main street property, and let the town keep the Main street lot and erect a new Municipal Building with a large auditorius to accommodate all the municipal producer from the auditorium.

Mayor Bull heartily concurred with this idea and after much discussion Councillor Johnson withdrew his original motion. Council will now investigate the proposition and make a line! cocmon at the May session of council.

6. 8. Joseelyn, Town Auditor, was present at the meeting and presented the Auditor's Report for 1946. He explained many of the various items in the report. He stated that the economic operation of the Fire Department was a very pleasing one, it being very much lower than any other municipality in the County.

In 1948 the town expended $14,000 on roads. In previous years a rebate of a certain percentage of all monies expended for road work has been received by the town from the County. From now on this rebate will not be received but in its place will be a subsidy from the Department of Highways. Mr. Joseelyn explained that it was possible for Grimsby to spend $17,000 on roads this year and receive from the government $8,800 of that amount. Where the government subsidy is paid all monies must be spent on arterial roads, or in other words on streets that run off or into provincial highways, connecting links so to speak. 90 per cent of all Grimsby streets can be termed as arterial highways. A review of Mr. Joscelyn's report appears in another part of this paper.

Major C. J. Milley of the Salvation Army asked Council for a grant to carry on their work, particularly with confinement cases among young unmarried mothers.

Mayor Bull explained that the policy of council for some years past had been to make no grants to any organization, particularly where these organizations are granted tag day or other street collection privileges.

Mrs. Ernest Buckenham, Regent of LO.D.E., appeared before Council requesting financial assistance toward the Clothes For Britain Fund. She stated that all ladies organizations in the town and township were behind the fund. Deputy-Rueve A. C. Price stated that County Council were contemplating making a lump sum grant to this and to cover all county munici-

No matter how busy a mother may be, she should find time at the beginning of the day to serve a substantial breakfast. The value of a well-balanced morning meal is illustrated in the performance of all members of a family, but is particularly noticeable in the behaviour of the younger once.

If youngsters have had a hearty breakfast, they will be less likely to worry for a "snack" between meals. They will play happily and since some of them are mixed with need less attention, so that mother can get on with her other chores.

Captain Horace Hume Van Wart the Czechoslovakian Consul at Torouto, presented an extremely interesting appeal to the Grimsby Chamber of Commerce Tuesday on behalf of the country he reprerentr. Captain Van Wart in of U.E.L. stock and a native of New Bruntwick, who was educated in | D.A. New Brunswick and Ontario. During the 1914-18 war Captain Van Wart was with the British Intellirence in Russia, where he trapped by the revolution joined with Czechoslovakian forces there just in time for their famous trans-Siberian march. The Captain outlined his experiences with these forces, which were made up mainly of Austrian deserters who marched eight thousand miles across Russia in the frst attempt for Czech independence rince 1648.

After fighting in Russia these War to find "a wonderful democratic country." However, came Munich, when two and a half million Czechs of German stock were handed over to Germany. Czecho also agreed to disband their army, giving Hitler a free pass to move into the country.

BRICKBATS AND BOUQUETS

(By the Observer)

Well, it is all over for 1946-47. The long drawn out season that inevitable when a team is fortunate enough to go for a championship has at last come to a successful conclusion. Since last Novemb when the initial group of candidates appeared on the ice for the opening practice right down to the final gong in the final game on Monday night a great deal of responsibility and hard work that has been taken by the players as a matter of course has been carried on by two men with the accompanying sacrifice of time and energy that the same

Naturally, I am referring to Mike Sweet and Joe Hands. Skates to be sharpened, leg guards and gauntiets to be repaired, sticks to be taped, aweaters to be washed and dried, underwear to be given a similar treatment and to be ready for practice sessions and games, the looking after of minor injuries which are bound to be received in such a strenuous pastime as our Canadian hockey, the barring from the dressing room of certain characters that always seem to be present and whose presence does nothing to assist in maintaining harmony

These are but a few of the many chores that fall to the lot of men who for the love of the game and for the welfare of the team asthe task of acting as trainers. From this scribe's observations, and has had the opportunity of observing the same at close range, these two men are most certainly worthy of an extra large sized bouquet for

Also in winding up this column for the season I would like make a comment and give a well deserved pat on the back to a number of the players who despite their efforts and regular appearance at the rink for practice sessions and games, were not in the judgment of the respective coaches used in the final games. Nothing will and can destroy the efforts of any team as quickly and as thoroughly as lack of that intengible but most valuable commodity known as harmony. Sure they felt hurt when the coaches decided that they were not to be dressed or this, that or the other game, but they most certainly did give a practical and solid exhibition of real sportsmanship, by taking the decision in the right spirit.

A coach's problem is not an easy one as anyone who has been familiar with organized sport full well knows. However, a coach after mature deliberation and the weighing of the pros and cons of every player under his control makes a decision and formulates a pattern of play which he hopes will be productive of the best results. When he has this plan set in his mind be naturally has to make decisions that will hurt this boy or that by virtue of the fact that they will not be playing in this or that game. So once again I say, "A real large sized bouquet to the players who stuck with the ship through thick and thin and who gave their all whenever asked to do so and who remained 100 percent for the team when they were benched.

took a step in this direction four minutes and fortyseven seconds after the extra inning started.

It was a brilliant rush, with Watson, Milroy and Scott tearing up through the Kings defense, and it was Watson who beat MacMillan.

If you had the time, you could have really made a study of facial expressions. The players on the Peach Kings looked absolutely grim, and the crowd seemed to go into a kind of trance, and a hush prevalled over the entire rink.

Strangely enough it was about this time, that Bones' famous and over-worked phrase about the "Peach Kings never die," angle struck me, and I like to think, that that was what Normie Warner was thinking as he took Craig's pass in the Grimsby zone, rocketed through the entire Markham team, who for some strange reason were playing with all five men up. Warner crashed through the defense, sailed in on Harper, and the Gamecock's shot was unstopable. The acore was tied. Defeat had been averted. This goal came with less than three minutes of play remaining.

The goal seemed to give the Kings that extrabit of intestinal fortitude of which true Champions are made, whereas the Millionaires were dumbfounded to think that victory had been anatched from their grasp. We will always wonder why the Millionnires did not fall back to pure and simple defensive hockey after they had taken the lead.

With disaster averted at the last minute, the home town fans, hardly dared to think of anything better than a tie game. This was not to be. The Kings did not want to prolong this thing any more than did the fans relieb the thought of going through this again on Wednesday night. But the big clock on the wall was an impartial onlooker and continued on its merry way to where it could rest its hands until another night. A minute to go, and the players , were battling all over the ice. Buddenly the Kings were ganging the Millionaires net. It was Hutchison, Craig and Hale, three boys with a lot of knowledge of play-off hockey, who were all around the enemy stronghold. A pass out from the side, and thentwo Grimsby players raised their sticks over their head. A feeble cheer from the throng gradually grew into a bilatering ear splitting bedlam, as first Red Dunn raised his arms signifying a goal, and then after what seemed a lifetime—the red light went on. The roof came off the rink.

Some two hours after the game, we got it from the guy who scored it. Small, wiry Bill Hutchison. Hutch told us, how the pass came out, and with just a little corner at the bottom right hand side of the not open, he shoved the puck, and it just made it over the red line.

The goal was hotly disputed by the Millionaires. This was natural. The impartial goal judge, Billi Dawson of Hamilton, who for years has been goal judge for another great team, the famous old men of the Tigers, told me later that Harper's gloved hand was behind the red line in order to push the puck out, and in his experienced eyes this was a

But that wasn't the end Just to cinch matters. for those who dislike the thought of winning on what may be termed a disputed goal. With twenty-eight seconds left to play, Frances Craig, poked his way through the Markham defense, and leaping in on Harper, the blonde who played the game of his great career, best the Markham netminder to give the Kings their five to three win.

The Championship was in the hands of the Peach Kings. The big clock sighed to a stop a few asconds later.

The scene which followed is best summarized in a few brief sentences. The fans for the most part awarmed onto the ice and all but mobbed the players. Kids had a field day getting autographs of their heroes, and went a step further and walked home

We have not picked stars all season. But now we make a exception. Imperial can have their three stars, we'll take five. First we'll take Pud Reid, who played a great game on defence, besides scoring as mportant goal

Next comes Frances Craig, who was a standout in this whole Markham series. Apparently his play was much the same in the series in 1940. Craig got in on all three overtime goals. Two assists, and that final goal. Apart from this, Craig's checking ability was really something to warrent a star bil-

In third spot we put Jack Watson of the Millio nires. This centre man impressed us as really a going concern, what with Bob Bangay all best up with the flu, Watson held his team together, and scored that overtime goal that almost meant curtains.

Bill Hutchison, the hamburger artist, who scored the first goal, and the winning goal of the game in the overtime, was certainly one of the best men on the ice.

For number five we'll take the Gamecock. Normie picked up that equalizer in overtime, when his team was right up against the wall. This alone is worthy of mention, but Warner's great play throughout the whole season leaves him as Grimsby's best.

Markham players should be roundly criticized for their poor sportsmanship in not coming to the Kings' dressing room to offer their congratulations.

Three officials have impressed us throughout the season. Two of them were here on Monday, Red Ducn and Les Kirkpetrick. These two boys work perfectly together, and are a credit to the O.H.A. OPENING NEW SUBDIVISION ON GRIMSBY BEACH PROPERTY

Part Of Lots Face On Park PHEASANTS LIBERATED Avenue-Over 50 All Year Residents Now Live In The

Progressive growth of the Grimsby Beach area of North Grimsby township was attested to on Saturday when George Fair, for the past 37 years manager of the Beach property informed Township ouncil that over 50 householdorn were now all year round residents of the Beach.

He was making his usual appeal to council for a grant to be used on the grading and resurfacing of the roads within the Beach, Coun cil granted him $400.

Mr. Pair also laid before council the plane of a new subdivision being opened up for the construction of new homes. The property to be known as Parkside Burvey, consists of 12 lots part of which face of them fell prey to predators and street business places some erected on this property and two 21 large pens at their farm others are under construction

WILL GRADE TOMATOES

tion of the Negotiating Committee under the provisions of the Ontario Vegetable Growers Marketing Scheme that compulsory Government grading of tomatoes purchased for processing in Eastern Ontario be established has been adopted," G. F. Perkin, chairman, Ontario Farm Products Marketing

This approval means that Eastern Ontario, including Ontario County and all counties cast thereof, will be designated as a closet area, and all tomatoes received for processing within that area will be purchased on the basis of grades determined by Government inspectors. The only exception will be those factories contracting for 50 acres or less of tomatoes. The minimum prices for such graded tomatoes will be $27.10 per ton for No. 1 grade, $17.10 per ton for No. 2 grade, culls nil, delivered at the factory or the factory receiving station. The new regulation will affect some 25 canning factories in Eastern Omtario, making in 1946 processed upwards of 75,000 tons of tomatoes.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS" IN THE HISTORY OF PAPER

It was not until the 12th century that paper first reached the European continent. Arab traders first brought it to Sicily and Spain, where it received a cool reception because of its Moslem origins. For a long time, parchment was used in preference to paper all through Christian Europe. The fact that most of the writing in those days was done by Christian monks with a natural bias towards anything Moslem was no doubt greatly responsible for paper's slow European

At length, however, Europe became the springboard for paper's eventual acceptance in America, and a mighty industry grew up on our continent which is to-day one of the mainstays of our country's economy. A family gathering is a fine thing. Everybody takes it slow and easy except mother who is superinetending the preparation of the

ONE TOUCH OF MIDAS

Lowell Thomas tells about an lover who brought an Indian maharwich some gifts which were un tentale wanted to reciprecal and after much pleading he finally rot the explorer to suggest: "Oh, will, if in your travels around Engand you happen to find any go tuhe, buy a few for me.

Some months later the maharajah reported: "I've hought two gold clubs for you. Both have 18 holes and one of them even has a swimming pool. But I have a disappoin ment for you. Bt. Andrews refu --- Leonard Lyons

You can tell when a girl thinks it is a pretty engagement ring. She holds her hand so others can he certain to see it.
